

Results from a survey conducted by Kantar Health on behalf of SK Life Science, Inc., reveal that for people with epilepsy, transportation can be a significant challenge. Some people may even be restricted from driving, depending on the severity of their seizures and where they live.

Get Your Ride Share Voucher

We're excited to announce the relaunch of the partnership with SK Life Science, Inc., for a first-of-its-kind Uber ride share campaign. Through this initiative, people with epilepsy and their caregivers are eligible to receive $50 Uber ride share voucher. Simply contact our toll-free Epilepsy & Seizures Helpline (9 AM - 5 PM EST Monday through Friday) to request a voucher.

To reach our Helpline, call 1-800-332-1000

*Terms and Conditions apply

Terms and Conditions: Uber voucher codes are limited to one code per person and cannot be shared or duplicated. User must have (or sign up for) an Uber account in order to apply the voucher. Vouchers are specifically designated for people with epilepsy and their caregivers. If you or a loved one do not experience epilepsy, please refrain from requesting a voucher. Note, this voucher will expire on June 30, 2023. The voucher can be applied to one or more Uber rides, pending each individual ride amount. For example, if user's first ride totals less than $50, the user can apply the remaining amount towards an additional ride. If a ride totals more than $50, the $50 will be applied and the user will be asked to complete payment for the remaining $ amount.*
